Certified Health Education Specialist Examination

You have completed the Certified Health Education Specialist Examination (CHES[®]) Exam.

Provisional Results: You passed the exam.

The provisional analysis of your test results show that you have achieved the passing standard for the CHES[®] Examination. In order to ensure that all examinees are evaluated accurately and fairly, additional evaluation of the functioning of all exam items is done during and at the close of each exam testing window.

Your official examination result report will be mailed to you via USPS within 4-6 weeks of the close of the testing window. While unlikely, your official score could be different than the provisional results. Your results are not final until you have received your final score report including your CHES[®] ID number and certificate.

Important Note: Any candidate who was eligible under the "90-Day student eligibility path" must submit to NCHEC an official transcript showing degree conferred or a copy of the diploma before the official results will be released.

To protect confidentiality, results will not be provided by email, phone or fax. To learn more about the scoring process for the CHES[®] examination, please visit <https://www.nchech.org/ches-exam-background-and-scoring>.

Sincerely,

The National Commission for Health Education Credentialing, Inc.
